Lectures and discussions are delivered and conducted by outstanding specialists from the world's leading centres dealing with rare diseases. They visit us every year delivering new and interesting lectures; some of them we have hosted many times. Each time, these are new, creative meetings, always held in a special, cordial atmosphere. For young physicians, the conferences are an opportunity to present their research results and rare cases.

Conference objectives: The conferences on rare diseases organized by us have permanently become part of the international calendar of educational meetings, attracting numerous participants from all over the world. We have successfully organized sixteen such conferences that resulted in experiences being shared, establishment of new professional relations and cooperation between Polish and foreign scientific and medical communities.
